there was nothing on it but a tiny golden key, and Alice's first idea was that this might belong to one of the doors of the hall ; but, alas ! either the locks were too large, or the key was too small, but at any rate it would not open any of them. However, on the second time round, she came upon a low curtain she had not noticed before, and behind it was a little door about fifteen inches high : she tried to get very tired of sitting by her sister on the nothing to do: once or twice she had peeped into the reading, but it had no pictures or conversations in the use of a book,' thought Alice 'without pictures or ing in her own mind (as well as she could, for the el very sleepy and stupid), whether the pleasure hain would be worth the trouble of getting up and , when suddenly a White Rabbit with pink eyes ran

o VERY remarkable in that; nor did Alice think it so e way to hear the Rabbit say to itself, 'Oh dear! late!' (when she thought it over afterwards, it t she ought to have wondered at this, but at the time natural); but when the Rabbit actually TOOK A WATCH T-POCKET, and looked at it, and then hurried on, r feet, for it flashed across her mind that she had rabbit with either a waistcoat-pocket, or a watch and burning with curiosity, she ran across the field nately was just in time to see it pop down a large he hedge.

own went Alice after it, never once considering how s to get out again.
